Academic Pulmonary/Thoracic Pathologist
Department of Pathology
The University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center

The Department of Pathology of UT Southwestern Medical Center is seeking an accomplished academic pathologist at the Assistant, Associate, or Professor with subspecialty training and expertise in Pulmonary/Thoracic Pathology. Appointment rank will be commensurate with academic credentials and experience. Candidates must possess an MD, MD/PhD, or DO; hold current AP or AP/CP ABP Board Certification; and be eligible for Texas medical license. In addition to patient care activities, the incumbent will be expected to participate in medical student and house staff teaching and develop or continue his/her research program. Outstanding opportunities for collaborative, translational research are available with members of basic science and clinical departments throughout UTSW. Competitive salary and start-up will be provided.

Applicants should complete an online application, attaching a cover letter, curriculum vitae, brief research statement, and three letters of reference, at <https://jobs.utsouthwestern.edu/jobs/faculty-and-physicians-job-field/>.

UT Southwestern Medical Center is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. Women, minorities, veterans, and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.
